RISK MANAGEMENT POLICY

General Policy Statement

Philodrill is a petroleum exploration and production company, with a diversified portfolio of assets. We provide services that consistently meet customer requirements and expectations. Our right to operate and our reputation as a publicly-listed company wholly depends upon our adherence to the prevailing laws, regulations and technical & industry standards.

In addition to the prevailing laws, regulations and technical & industry standards, Philodrill's management has a focused obligation to manage the risks inherent to its business. This, coupled with individual leadership and accountability empowers the Company to operate profitably while promoting its Risk Management Policy.

The Board and Management is committed to ensuring that it plans, performs the business activities diligently and ensures that the risks inherent in the business are identified and then avoided or kept as low as reasonably practicable.

Management will strive to identify and manage the risks inherent in the business and will continuously seek to improve its risk management performance so that it can protect its stakeholders, the environment, its assets and reputation.

Policy Strategies

To ensure the implementation of this policy we will:

- Comply with all prevailing laws, regulations and standards while aspiring to higher standards.
- Ensure adequate risk management is undertaken for all business activities.
- Delay or stop activities where risk identification has not been undertaken.
- Ensure that all activities are conducted in a safe and efficient manner and risks are avoided or are kept as low as reasonably practicable.
- Apply best industry standards where laws and regulations do not exist.
- Ensure that all employees and contractors are trained and suitably supervised so that they can perform their jobs efficiently.
- Ensure that procedures are in place to identify, assess and control workplace hazards.
- Use due influence to promote this policy in non-operated ventures.
- Promote the Company's values and culture so that all its employees will act in accordance with this policy.

Application

The Management is accountable to the Board of Directors for ensuring that this policy is implemented. This policy will be reviewed on a yearly basis.

This Policy applies to all employees, contractors and joint venturers engaged in activities under Philodrill's operational control.

Credit Risk Policy

Credit Risk is the possibility of loss for the Company if its receivable counterparties fail to discharge their contractual obligations. With respect to credit risks arising from the other financial assets of the Company, which comprise of cash in banks, cash equivalents and available-for-sale (AFS) financial assets, the Company's exposure to credit risk could arise from default of the counterparty.

To mitigate such risk, the Company trades only with recognized, creditworthy third parties. However, the Company's credit risk exposure is concentrated on a few counterparties which is inherent in the oil exploration and production business.

Liquidity Risk Policy

Liquidity risk is the risk that the Company becomes unable to meet its payment obligations when they fall due under normal and stress circumstances. The Company's objective is to maintain a balance between continuity of funding and flexibility through the use of bank loans and operating cash flows.

The Company addresses liquidity concerns primarily through cash flows from operations and short-term borrowings.

Market Risk Policy

Market risk is the risk of loss to future earnings, to fair values or to future cash flows that may result from changes in the price of a financial instrument. The value of a financial instrument may change as a result of changes in foreign currency exchange rates and interest rates.

a. Foreign Currency Risk

Foreign currency risk is the risk that the value for the Company's financial instruments diminishes due to unfavorable changes in foreign exchange rates.

The Company's transactional currency exposures arise from sales in currencies other than its functional currency. Its entire share in petroleum operations in revenue is denominated in US Dollars, exposing it to foreign exchange risk arising from its US Dollar-denominated receivables and cash equivalents.

Foreign currency risk has no other impact on the Company's equity other than the profit or loss.

b. Equity Price Risk

Equity price risk is the risk that the fair values of investments in quoted equity securities could decrease as a result of changes in the prices of equity indices and the value of individual stocks. The Company is exposed to equity securities price risk exists because of investments held by the Company, which are classified in its statement of financial position as AFS financial assets.

The impact of equity price risk on the Company's equity excludes the impact on transactions affecting profit or loss.

Commodity Price Risk

The Company's petroleum revenues are based on international commodity quotations (i.e. primarily on the average Dubai oil prices) over which the Company has no significant influence or control. This exposes the Company's results of operations to commodity price volatilities that may significantly impact its cash inflows.

However, the Company is exerting its efforts in reducing operating costs in order to counteract any decrease in commodity price.

Production Risk

The Company's crude oil production from the Galoc, Nido, Matinloc and North Matinloc fields may experience decline that are due to normal reserve depletion, production shutdown, adverse weather condition and problems relating to availability of vessels.

To reduce operating costs, improve Galoc system uptime to around 97%, and enhance the overall economic viability of the Galoc field and provide a good basis for the consortium to push through with further development and exploration work in the Galoc area, the SC14C-1 consortium has upgraded the mooring and riser system (M&RS) of the FPSO which basically involves the installation of a revolving external turret on the bow of the FPSO. The newly installed turret would practically eliminate the need for the risk and costly disconnection of the M&RS during adverse weather conditions and its subsequent reconnection which in the past had resulted in expensive damage and prolonged operating downtimes.

Generally, the Company maintains a capital base to cover all risks inherent in the business, with the primary objective of optimizing the use and earnings potential of its resources to ensure that it is able to comply with externally imposed (legal or contractual) capital requirements, if any, and considering changes in economic conditions and the risk characteristics of its activities.

WHISTLE BLOWER POLICY

This policy is intended to encourage directors, officers, employees and outsiders to report suspected or actual occurrence(s) of illegal, unethical or inappropriate events (behaviors or practices).

1. The Whistleblower may promptly report the suspected or actual event to his/her supervisor or, if the Whistleblower is an outsider, to the Company's Legal Counsel.
2. If the Whistleblower would be uncomfortable or otherwise reluctant to report to his/her supervisor, then the Whistleblower may report the event to the next highest level of management, including to an appropriate Board committee or member.
3. The Whistleblower can report the event with his/her identity disclosed or anonymously.
4. The Whistleblower shall receive no retaliation or retribution from the Company for a report that was provided in good faith (i.e. that was not done primarily with malice to damage another or the organization).
5. A Whistleblower who makes a report in bad faith may be subject to discipline, including termination from employment and/or removal from the Board or other legal means to protect the reputation of the Company, its employees and Board members.

10. The identity of the Whistleblower, if known, shall remain confidential to those persons directly involved in applying this policy, unless the issue requires investigation by law enforcement, in which case employees and/or directors of the Company may be subject to subpoena.

 1. competes with the Company; or
 2. purchases or sells, or seeks to purchase or sell, goods or services to or from the Company.

 4. The Audit Committee has determined that the transaction is in the best interest of the organization.

Disclosure in the organization should be made to the President (or if he is the one with the conflict, then to the Board Chairman) who shall bring the matter to the attention of the Audit Committee. Disclosure involving Directors should be made directly to the Audit Committee.

The Audit Committee shall determine whether a conflict of interest exists and, if so, whether the contemplated transaction may be authorized as just, fair, and reasonable to the Company. The decision of the Audit Committee on these matters will rest on their sole discretion,

INSIDER TRADING POLICY

The Need for a Policy Statement

The purchase or sale of securities while possessing material nonpublic (“insider”) information, or the selective disclosure of such information to others who may trade, is prohibited by law. As an essential part of work, directors, officers and employees and/or relatives of such persons may have access to material nonpublic information about The Philodrill Corporation (the “Company”) or about the Company’s business (including information about other companies with which the Company does or may do business).

The Company has adopted this Policy Statement to avoid even the appearance of improper conduct on the part of any Company employee (not just so-called insiders). All Company employees have worked hard over the years to establish a reputation for integrity and ethical conduct. This Policy Statement is designed to further the reputation of the Company and each employee for integrity and good corporate citizenship.

Policy

No director, officer, employee or relative of such person who has material nonpublic information relating to the Company, may buy or sell securities of the Company, directly or indirectly, or engage, in any other action to take personal advantage of that information, or pass on such information to others. This policy also applies to information obtained in the course of employment and relating to any other company with which the Company may have done or will do business with, including customers or suppliers.

Transactions that may be necessary or justifiable for independent reasons (such as the need to raise money for an emergency expenditure) are no exception. Even the appearance of an improper transaction must be avoided to preserve the Company’s reputation for adhering to the highest standards of conduct.

Liability of Supervisory Persons

The Company, as well as a director, officer or other Company manager, is subject to liability under the securities laws if the Company or such person knew, or recklessly disregarded, the fact that a person directly or indirectly under the Company’s or such person’s control was likely to engage in insider trading and failed to take appropriate steps to prevent such an act before it occurred. The penalties for such inaction can be significant.

If material nonpublic information is inadvertently disclosed, no matter what the circumstances, by any Company director, officer, employee, or their relatives, the person making or discovering that disclosure should immediately report the facts to the President, the Corporate Secretary or the Audit Committee of the Board of Directors.

Definition of Material Nonpublic Information

“Material” information is any information that a reasonable investor would likely consider important in a decision to buy, hold, or sell stock. In short, any information which could reasonably affect the price of the stock.

“Nonpublic” information is any information which has not been disclosed generally to the public via the exchange or media. Information about the Company that is not yet in general circulation should be considered nonpublic. Similarly, information received about another company in circumstances indicating that it is not yet in general circulation should be considered nonpublic. All information that directors and employees learn about the Company or its business plans in connection with their appointment or employment is potentially “insider” information until publicly disclosed or made available by the Company. All such information should be treated as confidential and propriety to the Company. Directors and employees shall not disclose it to others, such as family, relatives, business or social acquaintances, who do not need to know it for legitimate business reasons. If this nonpublic information is also “material”, directors and employees are further required by law and this Company policy to refrain from trading and from passing the information on to others who may trade.

Common examples of information that will frequently be regarded as material, assuming the same has not been publicly disclosed by the Company, are projections of future earnings or losses, or financial liquidity problems; major marketing changes; news of a pending or proposed joint venture, merger, acquisition or tender offer; news of a significant sale of assets or the disposition of a subsidiary; changes in dividend policies or the declaration of a stock split or the offering of additional securities; changes in management; major personnel changes; significant new products or discoveries; significant litigation or government investigations; or the gain or loss of a substantial customer or supplier.

Note that if securities transactions become the subject of scrutiny, they will be viewed after-the-fact with the benefit of hindsight. As a result, before engaging in any transaction, directors and employees should carefully consider how regulators and others might view the transaction in hindsight.

Transactions by Family Members

The same restrictions above apply to immediate family members and others living in the household. Directors and employees are expected to be responsible for the compliance of their immediate family and personal household.

Tipping Information to Others

Whether the information is proprietary information about the Company or information that could have an impact on the price of the Company's securities, directors and employees must not pass the information on to others, including family members and others living in their household or friends and casual acquaintances. Directors and employees are expected to be responsible for the compliance of their immediate family and others living in their households. The appropriate penalties shall apply whether or not the director or employee derived any benefit from another's actions.

Accordingly, directors and employees should not respond to inquiries from outsiders and should refer all such inquiries to the corporate officer designated in writing to respond to such inquiries.

Timing

It would be improper for any director or employee to enter a trade immediately after the Company has made a public announcement of material information, including earnings releases, because the Company's shareholders and the investing public should be afforded the time to receive the information and act upon it. As a general rule, directors and employees should not engage in any transaction until after two (2) full business days from release of material information.

Trading During Window Periods

Investment by Company directors and employees in the Company's securities is encouraged. The most appropriate periods to buy or sell the Company's securities is the period beginning on the third business day and ending on the twelfth business day following the release of quarterly or annual financial results (so-called "window periods"). In general, this is the period when there should be the least amount of inside information about the Company that is unavailable to the investing public. It is permissible to trade at other times. However, directors and employees may not buy or sell the Company's securities even during window periods if they are in possession of material nonpublic information.

Company Assistance

Any person who has any questions about specific transactions may obtain additional guidance from the Corporate Secretary. However, the ultimate responsibility for adhering to the Policy Statement and avoiding improper transactions rests with directors and employees. It is imperative that directors and employees use their best judgment.

Traders by Director, Officers, and Certain Other Personnel

To provide assistance in preventing inadvertent violations to insure compliance with timely reporting, and to avoid even the appearance of an improper transaction (which could result, for example, where an officer engages in a trade while unaware of a pending major development), the procedure set forth below must be followed by directors, officers (including all persons reporting directly to the officers), and by other employees who may have access to material nonpublic information.

All transactions in securities of the Company (acquisitions, dispositions, transfers, etc.) by any member of the above-mentioned groups must be coordinated with the Office of the Corporate Secretary. In addition to preventing transactions on material nonpublic information, coordination of all trades by reporting individuals (i.e directors, executive officers, and 10% beneficial owners) will help to assure timely disclosure by such individuals in SEC Form 23-A/B with the Philippine Stock Exchange (PSE) and the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC). Coordination of all trades will also enable the Company's officers, directors and 10% stockholders to avoid violations of the short-swing profit provisions of Section 23.2 of the Securities Regulation Code (SRC). Under this rule, insiders can be required to disgorge any profits realized from the purchase and sale (or sale and purchase) of any equity security of the Company within a period of less than six months.

Considering the above, the Committee shall assess the availability of suitable candidates for the Company's future growth and development. Further, based on the recommendation of the Head – Personnel and Admin Department, the Nomination Committee:

- 1) shall evaluate the incumbent after considering all relevant criteria like experience, age, health, leadership quality etc. and recommend to the Board whether the concerned individual (i) be granted an extension in term/service or (ii) be replaced with an identified internal or external candidates.
- 2) shall identify the competency requirements of Board/key positions, assess potential candidates and develop required competency through planned development and learning initiatives. The Committee may utilize the services of professional search firms to assist in identifying and evaluating potential candidates.
- 3) may recommend to the Board to appoint other suitable external candidate(s) as special recruitment in senior managerial level based on job roles and competency in order to provide a continuous flow of talented people to meet the organizational needs.

The regular internal promotion shall be governed by the provisions of the Procedures Manual (2008) of the Company. The prevailing promotion/transfer policy of Company is designed in such a way that the existing/proposed senior managerial personnel gets all-round exposure in various domains to facilitate career progression, prepare them for administrative responsibilities and to discharge their functions effectively in senior positions. Where it is decided to appoint an external candidate, timely and planned steps shall be taken for selection of a suitable candidate so that the appointment is made well before the retirement/relieving of the concerned officer to ensure the smooth transition.

The recommendation of the Nomination Committee shall be placed to the Board for approval. While making its recommendation, the Nomination Committee shall consult with the Chairman & CEO, as may be relevant and all factors including the available talent within the organization and the need to ensure continuous working and growth of the Company shall be carefully considered.

The Head of the Personnel and Admin Department shall from time to time identify high-potential employees who merit faster career progression to position of higher responsibility and formulate, administer, monitor & review the process of skill development and identify the training requirements. Every member of the Senior Management Team shall always endeavor to add capability in-house and mentor officials with potential, working under him to handle responsibilities in his absence by exposing him to all aspects of work being handled by him. In the event of any unexpected occurrence in respect of any member in the core management team, the next person as per the organization chart (as far as practicable) shall take interim charge of the position, pending a regular appointment in terms of the succession plan.

In addition to the above, the appointment of Key Managerial Positions shall be made in compliance with all applicable provisions of the Code of Corporate Governance for PLCs and the policies adopted pursuant thereto.

VI. COMPENSATION OF EXECUTIVE AND NON- EXECUTIVE DIRECTORS

Upon the recommendation of the Compensation & Remuneration Committee, the Board may fix the remuneration of Non-Executive Directors (including Independent Directors). The Non-Executive Directors shall be entitled to reasonable per diems for attending Board/Committee meetings at such rate as may be approved by the Board from time to time. In addition to the per diem, the Company will reimburse the normal travelling expenses of Directors incurred for the purpose of attending any other duties on behalf of the Company.

Subject to compliance with the provisions of the Company's By-laws, the Securities Regulation Code and the Code of Corporate Governance for PLCs, the Board may, upon recommendation of the Compensation Committee and endorsement from CG & Nomination Committee, after taking into account the profitability of the Company for each financial year, approve the payment of an annual compensation payable to each non-executive Director and Independent Directors of the Company for each financial year or part thereof. Where a Director has left the Company before the completion of a financial year or before approval of the payment of compensation by the Board, the Board may in its absolute discretion sanction such amount as commission to such Director for his services during the period for which the compensation was fixed. Remuneration of Executive Directors shall be fixed by the Board on the basis of recommendation of the Compensation Committee and in accordance with the policies set by the Company's By-laws, and the CG & Nomination Committee. The remuneration of the Executive Directors shall be a combination of fixed monthly salary in terms of their appointment as approved by the Board and a performance based annual compensation to be decided by the Board on the recommendation of the Compensation and the CG & Nominations Committee. The performance parameters to be applied to the Executive Directors, the minimum and maximum amount of compensation payable in line with the achievement of various targets/parameters will be decided upon by the Compensation Committee from time to time.

VII. COMPENSATION PLAN FOR KEY MANAGEMENT PERSONNEL (KMPS) AND OTHER SENIOR MANAGEMENT TEAM MEMBERS

The compensation structure of KMPS and senior management team members shall consist of fixed salary components (including variable allowances), according to the policy approved by the Company and at par with the industry standards, to be approved by the Compensation Committee. The compensation structure shall be devised in a manner that will help the Company to attract and retain top talents to run the Company efficiently with a long term perspective. The compensation structure may also include stock options/SARs targeting employee participation in ownership of the Company and to ensure the retention of potential talents for the future growth and diversity of the Company.

VIII. REVIEW OF THE POLICY

In case of any amendment/s, clarification/s, circular/s etc. issued by the relevant authorities, not being consistent with the provisions laid down under this policy, then such amendment/s, clarification/s, circular/s, etc. shall prevail upon the provisions in this policy and this policy shall stand amended accordingly. The Board has the power to replace this policy entirely with a new policy on recommendation by the Compensation Committee and in accordance with the policies set by the CG & Nomination Committee.

ENTERPRISE RISK MANAGEMENT FRAMEWORK

Enterprise Risk Management (ERM) is a process, affected by Philodrill's Board of Directors, Management, and other personnel. This process is applied in strategy setting and across the Company, designed to identify potential events that may affect the company, and manage risks to be within its appetite.

ERM provides reasonable assurance regarding the achievement of the Company's objectives. Philodrill can identify, assess, respond and monitor the outcomes of the industry's leading risk factors with an Enterprise Risk Management system in place.

Risk management is an integral part of day-to-day business activities in the energy industry. Oil and gas companies face risks ranging from volatile commodity prices, which are less linked to basic supply and demand but more to global socioeconomic factors, to increased health, safety, and environmental pressures resulting from past and recent major accidents negatively impacting the environment, industry image, and its social lease.

However, risks related to asset damage, business interruption, pollution, injuries to people, and damage to properties are intrinsic in normal oil and gas activities. Then there are the additional risks of non-compliance and of major cost overruns for large construction projects so common in today's industry. Consider also some cyber threats targeting oil and gas companies in the Middle East. These are just a few examples of the serious risks and threats that can impact oil and gas companies. Technology can help mitigate these risks.

Philodrill explores the operational risks faced by oil and gas companies in today's business and regulatory environment, and how the right information technology can help mitigate those risks. Operational risk is experienced at the corporate level, but the framework also focuses on what impacts everyday well, pipeline, and plant operations.

According to the IEA's World Energy Outlook, global energy demand will grow by more than a third over the period to 2035, driven largely by rising living standards in China, India, and the Middle East, which together will account for 60% of that increase. At the same time, unconventional resources are changing the global energy map: the IEA forecast that the United States will overtake Saudi Arabia and Russia as the world's top oil producer.

OPERATIONAL RISKS

More Projects, More Complex and More Risks to Manage

In the oil and gas industry, managing capital projects, in particular large capital projects, in a global environment is becoming increasingly complex. This is especially the case as large reserves are being depleted and the industry copes by drilling multiple smaller wells to compensate. Oil and gas companies need to make strategic decisions about which projects should be developed first to ensure their company's best performance.

The Company and its Management has to make decisions about equipment resources: When is the best time to reserve a rig? Should the decision be based on getting the best rate even if the rig will not be needed at that exact moment? Or should the Company wait until the exact date for a drilling project is known and risk the equipment not being available, or the threat of higher rental rates?

How does an equipment shortage impact planned revenues? Do key decision makers have the ability to review this information and prioritize projects based on equipment resources? The same resource issues are faced for human capital tied to exploration and production (E&P) projects. Are the appropriate teams in place for a project, or has an unexpected failure at another location impacted the project? As a result, the project portfolio needs to be dynamically managed as a process, in which the list of projects can be constantly revised, and new projects evaluated, selected, and prioritized based on parameters of importance to the company such as level of risk, expected return on investment, EHS considerations, etc.

Existing projects can be accelerated, stopped, or reprioritized, and resources can be allocated and reallocated to the most appropriate active projects as needed.

Operational Complexity

The oil and gas industry is operating in increasingly remote geographical locations and harsher environmental conditions, with unconventional processes to extract hydrocarbons. Joint collaboration between large producers on risky international exploration and production (E&P) projects is common. Articulated E&P sharing agreements with multiple stakeholders need to be managed. High rates of non-productive time require action, and overall equipment efficiency needs to grow. Ultimately, companies share the same primary goal of needing to produce hydrocarbon as efficiently and cost effectively as possible. One strategy for achieving this has been the adoption of a "digital oilfield" or "integrated operations" to enhance reservoir recoverability, optimize production, and reduce economic, environment, health, and safety risks. This strategy is focused on accessing and managing key asset-related data to improve decision making across the entire industry.

Shortage of Experts

A shortage of expert resources is not new to the industry. This problem has existed for several years. Shortages are mainly in the highly technical areas such as geology and geophysics and petroleum engineering. In some geographies there is also a shortage of IT personnel with expertise in some of the more complex information technologies, such as high-performance computing (HPC), used to support analysis of large volumes of scientific and engineering data in exploration and production.

Cyber Security: Expanded Boundaries of Vulnerability

The industry has always been involved in efforts related to critical infrastructure protection. However, with the progressive digital evolution toward smart oilfields and refineries of the future, IT and OT security has been receiving greater attention. Concerns were originally raised about the security of process systems with the revelation that the highly sophisticated virus is capable of invading process control systems, and potentially disrupting processes by invading control systems on drilling rigs and in the refinery. The cyber attacks on Saudi Aramco and RasGas were a huge shock for many oil and gas organizations in the Middle East region. The world's largest oil-producing company, Saudi Aramco, was the victim of a significant cyber attack on August 15, 2012. The oil giant announced that 30,000 of its workstations had been infected by a virus. Moreover, on August 27, Qatar's natural gas pumper, RasGas, was hit by a similar attack, resulting in the company being taken offline for a few days. A group of hackers calling themselves the Cutting Sword of Justice claimed responsibility for the attack on Saudi Aramco. They allegedly infected the organization's systems with replicating malicious software (malware) for political reasons. Some IT analysts credit a virus called Shamoon for both attacks. Both Saudi Aramco and RasGas managed to limit the damage, as the attacks did not affect extraction or processing, but such a bold attack had important repercussions on the IT strategies of oil and gas organizations operating in the Middle East, demanding new projects on risk assessments, new IT security policies, and the adoption of additional security solutions.

WHAT TO DO TO HANDLE OPERATIONAL RISKS

Access and Visibility: Right Information at the Right Time

Most oil and gas companies would agree that the most significant challenge for their enterprise is management of information. Oil and gas companies continue to work to be able to create intelligence from the massive amount of technical and business data, both structured and unstructured, that they have collected. The ultimate goal in collecting all this information is to speed time to first oil, reduce risks, and meet compliance requirements with information life-cycle management. Some companies are establishing new information governance structures to harness Operational Technology and Information Technology data sources. At the same time, information needs to be shared in a secure manner with multiple partners to speed time to oil and lower EHS and economic risks.

Timely access to all relevant information is critical in case action is needed following catastrophic events. In order to reduce response time, oil and gas companies need to ensure immediate distribution of all relevant materials to all interested parties. Moreover, timely, contextualized, and consistent information is the basis for effectively implementing standard operating procedures, essential to cope with continuous changes in people and teams working on the assets.

When it comes to information related to assets the issue of data quality hits oil and gas companies. These are typical issues:

- Asset databases are incomplete
- Documents (including drawings) are not updated
- Information stored in the different company systems are not consistent or integrated
- Information is not available or not properly synchronized on mobile devices
- Data quality is not systematically audited. Poor data quality heavily impacts the decision-making process, increasing the risks of operational mistakes. Oil and gas companies need to carefully tackle this issue to avoid reducing effectiveness of operations. Additionally inconsistent data across systems increases the risk of fines from regulators.

Prevention of Non-Compliance

With the increasing regulatory pressure, oil and gas companies cannot afford the risk of being non-compliant. More stringent requirements for timely reporting on operations and accidents might be required, as well as risk mitigation plans for critical operations such as drilling. Philodrill ensures that vital documents, including approvals for drilling, building, and maintaining wells, are available throughout the enterprise and across enterprise boundaries to minimize risk and ensure regulatory compliance.

Environmental, Health and Safety (EHS) systems include a broad set of applications and technologies that cater to the EHS business needs of the oil and gas industry. Primarily, these systems automate the management of structured and unstructured EHS data and facilitate the necessary flow of EHS-related compliance actions, such as inspections and reporting. More sophisticated systems include enterprise operations risk management applications that aid with asset and worker safety. EHS technologies also refer to instrumentation and supporting software that aid with measurement and remediation activities related to ground, water, and atmospheric leaks. GIS and GPS systems, as well as preventive asset management, play an important role in promoting EHS initiatives.

Holistic Approach to Operational and Enterprise Risks

Operational risks are a key component of overall enterprise risk management, and information plays a key role in reducing them. Oil and gas companies, like any other capital-intensive business, need to take strategic, operational, and tactical decisions about their assets, whether they are resources, reserves, wells, plants, or facilities. Often there exists a disconnect between the tactical and the strategic levels.

The strategists do not have visibility into costs and efficiencies across the portfolio of assets. Also, well/plant-level decisions are made based on the perspective of the individual plant or asset and these decisions may not support the profitability goals set at the corporate level. This disconnect negatively affects the company's ability to handle risks. Technology can help reduce disconnect with analytics and governance, risk, and compliance (GRC) applications, which automate and document processes pertaining to the definition, assessment, and verification of business controls and operational risk at the corporate level. Enterprise GRC software includes financial compliance management, audit management, corporate policy and procedure management, risk management, and continuous enterprise controls monitoring.

Real-Time Monitoring and Predictive Maintenance to Prevent Incident Failure or Non-Productive Time

The upstream industry has adopted many of the same techniques to improve capital asset management. The company use a variety of techniques to reduce maintenance costs, increase uptime, and increase availability. These techniques include:

- Condition-based monitoring. Placement of sensors to measure various conditions (temperature, vibration, etc.) to detect situations that may indicate potential equipment failure. The more sophisticated systems have alerting capabilities and are integrated with enterprise asset management applications that can automatically generate inspection or work orders.
- Predictive maintenance. Predictive maintenance goes beyond condition-based maintenance in applying advanced analytics to predict potential equipment failures, providing enough notice to procure complex non-commodity replacement equipment. The algorithms identify a departure from normal operating levels of a piece of equipment rather than comparing performance with expected performance levels for the equipment class.
- Criticality-based maintenance. This technique informs decisions on maintenance strategy by identifying which assets are critical to the process and what the process impacts would be if the asset were to fail. Criticality-based maintenance also informs procurement strategy so that inventories, and the costs associated with keeping them, are reduced but not at the expense of increased downtime.
- Performance center or center of excellence. The Company intends to adopt centers of excellence where engineering staff are able to bring together engineering knowledge for root cause analysis when potential problems are identified. Centers of excellence can also have a view of multiple assets to support decision making and maintenance planning and even suggest future equipment design modifications.

Collaborative Planning, Operations and Decision Making

To reduce non-productive time, enhance production, and reduce both economic and EHS risks, the Company is creating a stronger and more comprehensive connection between field operations staff and remote experts. This connection involves:

- Collaboration. The ability for multiple parties to visualize and analyze the same set of data and information from disparate locations.
- Workflow. Rationalizing data to make it automatically available to personnel and applications according to role-based need.
- Access to real-time data. Surface and subsurface to improve production, often involving sensors. This is often accomplished through collaboration rooms accessible from multiple locations, both on-rig and off-rig. Visualization can be 3D or 4D and, depending on the data, is most effective with a geospatial overlay.

Cyber Security Policy Design and Execution

One of the most basic elements to guarantee information security is to have an enterprise information security architecture applied to all the data, systems, processes, and people. It is imperative to be able to track from the business strategy to individual security technologies.

Information technology can help mitigate operational risks. Organizations that understand their risk profile and take concrete action to mitigate risks will be better positioned to be successful in the marketplace. It is therefore recommended that the following should be practiced:

- Consider developing a corporate wide approach to managing information in the plant. Best practices cover use of technology to support operations, business analytics, application integration, EHS compliance, and enterprise content management.
- Work to develop business processes for operations and identify document control workflow for approvals within the organization, including the transmittal and standard operating procedure (SOP) processes. Determine how often you wish to share documents with vendors, partners, regulators, and others. Work together to develop a coding standard for components/documents to ensure that there is consistent master data management.
- Participate in industry associations and user communities to help arrive at standards for sharing of content and supporting well and plant workflows.
- Look to areas of high vulnerability in your operation such as current processes that still rely on paper files that can potentially be difficult to find and update and may be misfiled or lost and ultimately expose your company to regulatory or internal audit failures.
- Focus on process improvements that will allow more effective creation and sharing of content both inside and outside the firewall. A good area to start would be the transmittal and SOP processes.
- In this time of increased regulatory pressure, look at solutions that optimize the way you manage, share, store, and archive content to comply with environmental, health, and safety regulations.
- Look at deploying information rights management tightly integrated with content management to ensure that only authorized recipients can view, copy, print, or edit confidential information.

- Reassess your customer communications capabilities to ensure timely and personalized correspondence tailored to the delivery requirements of the recipient, including customers and regulatory agencies.
- Take a more holistic approach of your asset information to ensure that drawings, records and other documentation are properly identified, stored, classified, accessible, accurate, and appropriately safeguarded.
- Familiarize yourself with emerging asset management standards such as PAS 55 and ensure that future asset management solutions that are deployed in your company operations adhere to such standards.
- Evaluate solution vendors that have the flexibility to support mobile access of project and plant information, which enables and optimizes access of information wherever it is accessed.
- Consider solutions that provide options to deploy cloud-based solutions and can support projects that require cloud deployments.

ALTERNATIVE DISPUTE MECHANISM

Any controversy of claim brought directly by a shareholder against the Corporation or any of its Directors and Officers or agents may be settled by Arbitration as provided under the Philippine Alternative Dispute Resolution Act of 2014.

The arbitration shall be conducted in accordance with the Arbitration Rules of the Philippine Dispute Resolution Center, Inc. of the Philippine Chamber of Commerce and Industry (the "Arbitration Rules") then in effect.

The place of arbitration shall be in Metro Manila and the language of arbitrations shall be in English.

There shall be three (3) arbitrators (the "Arbitral Tribunal") to be appointed in accordance with the Arbitration Rules.

The parties shall be bound by the award rendered by the Arbitral Tribunal and confirmed by the appropriate Regional Trial Court.

In handling conflicts or differences between the Company and third parties directly relating to the business of the Company, involving foreign companies, Philodrill considers and explores with the other party/parties involved mutually acceptable alternative means or procedures for resolving such disputes that are provided by law prior to resorting to court action.

International Arbitration (IA)

Disputes in the oil and gas sector could arise as a result of any of the following but not limited to: environmental claims; shareholder value related issues, regulatory issues, trade restriction among others. Contracts in the oil and gas industry more often than not, involve individual foreign parties. It could be an individual, an agency representing a state.

Recourse to a national court to address any contractual disputes between these parties would mean that, the national court would be a foreign court to the other party. These courts have their own rules; formalities and procedure designed to deal with domestic issues and may not have the competence and experience to handle complex international energy investment cases. The language of these courts may not be the language of the contract and hence cannot be used to settle such international energy disputes. Any international contract signed by the parties that does not contain an arbitration clause will have recourse to foreign court systems to resolve their disputes.

The parties to an agreement which provide for an arbitration clause will have the opportunity of resolving any disputes that may arise in future on a neutral ground rather than on the home grounds of one party or the other. Since most oil and gas contracts are international in nature, International Arbitration fits in as the best alternative to addressing any contractual disputes that may arise because IA gives the disputants the opportunity to participate in the nomination and appointment of the arbitral tribunal for their dispute.

PROCEDURE IN ADR METHODS

Since resort to arbitration generally depends on the agreement of the parties, the same can only be commenced by the demand of one party to the other to submit a controversy to arbitration. On the other hand, in cases where there is no arbitration clause in the contract, parties may execute a submission agreement to arbitrate. The demand for arbitration in accordance with the contract shall be served upon the other party.

Thereafter, parties will appoint the arbitrator/arbitral tribunal based on the procedure agreed upon by them. Failing such agreement, in arbitration with three arbitrators, each party shall appoint one arbitrator, and the two chosen arbitrators shall appoint the third arbitrator. Generally, arbitration proceedings are administered by an arbitral institution or entity, an example of which is the Philippine Dispute Resolution Center, Inc. or the case of international disputes involving foreign counterparties, International Chamber of Commerce (ICC). These arbitral institutions have a list of qualified and competent arbitrators from which the parties shall choose the arbitrators who will adjudicate their dispute. The arbitrator appointed shall either accept or decline the appointment but must first disclose circumstances likely to give rise to justifiable doubts as to his impartiality or independence.

An arbitrator may be challenged if circumstances exist that give rise to justifiable doubts as to his impartiality or independence, or if he does not possess qualifications agreed to by the parties. After their appointment, the arbitrators shall set the time and place for the hearing of the matter submitted to them and must cause notice thereof to be given to the parties.

Subject to any contrary agreement by the parties, the Arbitral Tribunal shall decide whether to hold oral hearings for the presentation of evidence or to conduct proceedings on the basis of documents and other materials. Parties may even agree to conduct an informal hearing which may be held at any place. During the hearing, all statements, documents or other information supplied to the Arbitral Tribunal by one party shall be communicated to the other party. The arbitrators shall be the sole judge of the materiality/relevancy of the evidence offered and shall not be bound to conform to the rules on evidence.

After the close of the hearing, the arbitral tribunal shall then render an award. The award shall be made in writing and shall be signed by the arbitrator or arbitrators. It shall state the reasons upon which it is based and the date and place of arbitration. A copy of the award shall be delivered to each party.

Regular Board meetings will be held every month and special meetings may be called as necessary. A schedule of the regular meetings will be provided to the Directors well in advance. Directors are expected to attend Board meetings and meetings of the committees on which they serve. Directors should spend the time necessary and meet as frequently as necessary to properly discharge their responsibilities.

Management Committee meetings will regularly be held 2-3 times a month. These sessions are designed to provide the Directors and the management the opportunity to discuss matters that do not require formal Board action.

The Non-Executive Directors will meet in executive session following or in conjunction with a regular Board meeting, without the Chairman and CEO being present. At least one executive session per year will include only independent Directors. The Independent Director will preside at such meetings and his role as Lead (Independent) Director will be disclosed in the Company's annual information statement. In the event the Independent Director is unable to participate in an executive session, the non-executive Directors present at such executive session shall choose a non-executive Director to preside at such executive session. The Independent Director's additional responsibilities include: (1) being the Chairman of all the prescribed committees – Audit, Corporate Governance and Remuneration Committees; (2) serving as a liaison between the chairman and the independent directors, (3) being available to consult with the Chairman and CEO about the concerns of the Board; and (4) being available to consult with any of the senior executives of the Company as to any concerns that executive might have.

The Chairman, Chief Executive Officer or Committee Chairpersons may from time to time invite corporate officers, other employees and advisors to attend Board or committee meetings whenever deemed appropriate.

Directors are encouraged to attend all annual stockholders' meetings.

3. Agenda Items for Board and Committee Meetings

The Chairman will establish the agenda for each Board meeting. At the beginning of the year the Chairman will establish a schedule of agenda subjects to be discussed during the year (to the degree this can be foreseen). Each Director is free to suggest the inclusion of items on the agenda. Each Director is free to raise at any Board meeting subjects that are not on the agenda for that meeting. An agenda and, to the extent feasible, supporting documents and proposed resolutions will be provided to the Directors approximately one week prior to each Board meeting. Directors should review these materials in advance of the meeting. Subject to any applicable notice requirements, Directors having items to suggest for inclusion on the agenda for future Board meetings should advise the Chairman well in advance of such meetings.

The Chairperson of each committee, in consultation with the committee members, will determine the frequency and length of the committee meetings consistent with any requirements set forth in the committee's charter. The Chairperson of each committee, in consultation with the appropriate members of the committee and management, will develop the committee's agenda. At the beginning of each year each committee will establish a schedule of agenda subjects to be discussed during the year (to the degree these can be foreseen). An agenda and, to the extent feasible, supporting documents and proposed resolutions will be provided to the committee members approximately one week prior to each committee meeting. Committee members should review these materials in advance of the meeting.

4. Director Compensation

Non-employee Directors do not receive compensation for their services as such. Directors only receive reasonable per diem for every meeting they participate in. Directors who are employees of the Company or any of its subsidiaries shall receive no additional compensation for serving as Directors other than the reasonable per diem.

The form and amount of Director compensation that may be given in the future will be determined by the Compensation and Remuneration Committee in accordance with the policies and principles set forth in its charter, and subject to approval by the stockholders representing at least a majority of the outstanding capital stock. Once implemented, the Compensation and Remuneration Committee will conduct an annual review of Director compensation. The Compensation Committee will consider that Directors' independence may be jeopardized if Director compensation and perquisites exceed customary levels or if the Company enters into consulting contracts with (or provides other indirect forms of compensation to) a Director or an organization with which the Director is affiliated.

5. Director Orientation and Education

Management will provide new Directors with an initial orientation in order to familiarize them with their responsibilities as Directors, and with the Company and its strategic plans, its significant financial, accounting and risk management issues, its compliance programs, its Code of Conduct, its senior management, and its internal and independent auditors.

In order to facilitate the Directors' fulfillment of their responsibilities regarding continuing education and to enhance each Director's knowledge of the Company, the Company's business operations and the latest developments in corporate governance, it is appropriate for management to provide Directors with the following:

- Educational programs supplemental to the initial orientation to explain the Company's business operations, including its technology, products and market position.
- Access to, or notice of, continuing educational programs that are designed to keep Directors abreast of the latest developments in corporate governance matters and critical issues relating to the operation of public company boards.

- Material that contains information pertaining to (i) the Company's industry and (ii) comparisons of the Company with its major competitors.
- Visits to the platforms to show and explain how crude oil is produced or gas is extracted.
- A legal review for the Board, at least annually, of (i) the status of major litigation, if any (ii) compliance with significant regulatory requirements affecting the Company and (iii) corporate governance matters.

6. CEO Evaluation and Management Succession

The Compensation Committee will conduct an annual review of the Chief Executive Officer's performance, as set forth in its charter. The Board of Directors will review the Compensation Committee's report in order to ensure that the Chief Executive Officer is providing the best leadership for the Company in the long- and short-term.

The Board will evaluate potential successors and approve management succession strategies and plans for the Chief Executive Officer and other executive officers of the Company. The Chief Executive Officer should at all times make available his or her recommendations and evaluations of potential successors, along with a review of any development plans recommended for such individuals.

7. Director Access to Officers and Employees

Directors have full and free access to officers and employees of the Company. Any meetings or contacts that a Director wishes to initiate may be arranged through the CEO or the Secretary or directly by the Director. The Directors will use their judgment to ensure that any such contact is not disruptive to the business operations of the Company and will, to the extent not inappropriate, copy the CEO on any written communications between a Director and an officer or employee of the Company.

8. Independent Advisors

The Board and each committee have the power to engage experts or advisors, including independent legal counsel, deemed appropriate by the Board or the committee, without consulting or obtaining the approval of any officer of the Company. The Company will provide for appropriate funding, as determined by the Board or committee, for payment of compensation to any such counsel, experts or advisors retained by the Board or a committee.

II. Board Structure

1. Size of the Board

The Company's By Laws prescribe that the number of Directors of the Company which shall constitute the whole Board shall be nine (9) this is in accordance with the provisions of the Corporation Code which prescribes not be less than five nor more than 15.

2. Selection of Directors

Nominees for directorship will come from the names of candidates solicited by the Nominations Committee from sources deemed reasonable by the Committee, including candidates suggested by shareholders. The invitation to join the Board should be extended by the Board itself, by the Chairman of the Corporate Governance and Nominations Committee and the Chairman of the Board.

The Board is responsible for nominating members to the Board and for filling vacancies on the Board that may occur between annual stockholders meetings, in each case based upon the recommendation of the Corporate Governance and Nominations Committee.

3. Director Qualifications

The Corporate Governance and Nominations Committee is responsible for reviewing with the Board, on an annual basis, the requisite skills and characteristics of new Board members as well as the composition of the Board as a whole. This assessment will include evaluation of the members' independence, as well as consideration of diversity (including gender, age, ethnic background, geographic origin and professional experience), talent, skills, and other experience in the context of the needs of the Board.

A description of the desirable characteristics that the Corporate Governance and Nominations Committee and the Board should evaluate when considering candidates for nomination as Directors are set forth on Attachment A to this Charter. The Nominations Committee will review such characteristics at least annually and recommend any appropriate changes to the Board for consideration.

4. Director Retirement

There is no retirement age policy for Directors, for as long as a Director is capable of performing the functions of his office and is able to promote the interest of the Company, he may be re-elected for another term. Property rights arising from stock ownership, including the right to be elected in the Board of Directors, is not restricted by age or tenure under existing laws. Imposing retirement of Director due to age limit holds the disadvantage of losing the contribution of Directors who have been able to develop, over a period of time, increasing insight into the Company and its operations and, therefore, provide an increasing contribution to the Board as a whole.

5. Resignation from the Board

Any Director may resign at any time by giving notice in writing or by electronic transmission to the Chairman of the Board, the President or the Secretary of the Company. Such resignation shall take effect upon receipt thereof or at any later time specified therein; and unless otherwise specified therein, the acceptance of such resignation shall not be necessary to make it effective.

It is the sense of the Board that Directors who change the responsibility they held when they were elected to the Board or who subsequently have another change in responsibility should notify the Chairman of the Board of each such change in responsibility. It is not the sense of the Board that in every instance the Directors who retire or have a change in responsibility from the position they held when they came on the Board should necessarily leave the Board. There should, however, be an opportunity for the Board through the Nominations Committee to review the continued appropriateness of Board membership under the circumstances. If the Committee determines that continued Board membership under the circumstances is no longer appropriate, the Director shall resign.

6. Term Limits

There is no term limit for Directors, except for the Independent Directors, who shall serve for a maximum cumulative term of nine (9) years, after which, the independent director shall be perpetually barred from re-election as such in the company, but may continue to qualify for nomination and election as regular director, as prescribed under the Revised Code of Corporate Governance for PLCs. Imposing term limits on regular Directors holds the disadvantage of losing the contribution of Directors who have been able to develop, over a period of time, increasing insight into the Company and its operations, especially for highly technical ones, and therefore, provide an increasing contribution to the Board as a whole.

III. Committees of the Board

A substantial portion of the analysis and work of the Board is done by standing Board committees. The Board has established the following standing committees: Audit Committee; CG and Nominations Committee; Remuneration and Compensation Committee and the Management Committee. The Board may, from time to time, establish or maintain additional committees as necessary or appropriate.

Committee members will be appointed by the Board upon recommendation of the Corporate Governance and Nominations Committee with consideration of the desires of individual Directors. It is the sense of the Board that consideration should be given to rotating committee members periodically, but the Board does not feel that rotation should be mandated as a policy.

Each committee will have its own charter. The charters will set forth the purposes, goals and responsibilities of the committees as well as qualifications for committee membership, procedures for committee member appointment and removal, committee structure and operations and committee reporting to the Board.

The Board will have at all times an Audit Committee, a Compensation Committee and a Corporate Governance and Nominations Committee. All these committees shall be headed by an independent Director. In addition, the members of the Audit Committee will also meet the experience requirements of the Securities and Exchange Commission.

IV. Other Board Practices

1. Review of Roles and Responsibilities of Directors

The Chairman of the Board will review with each Director on a periodic basis the performance of each Director's duties as well as the role and responsibilities of each Director.

2. Board Interaction with Institutional Investors, Analysts, Media, Customers and Members of the Public

Except where directed by the Chief Executive Officer or the Chief Financial Officer of the Company, communications on behalf of the Company with the media, securities analysts, stockbrokers and investors must be made only by specifically designated representatives of the Company. If a Director receives any inquiry relating to the Company from the media, securities analysts, brokers or investors, including informal social contacts, he or she should decline to comment and ask them to coordinate with the Company's Chief Financial Officer or the Office of the Corporate Secretary.

3. Performance Evaluation of the Board

The Board of Directors will conduct an annual self-evaluation to determine whether it and its Committees are functioning effectively. The Corporate Governance and Nominations Committee will receive comments from all Directors and report annually to the Board with an assessment of the Board's performance. The assessment will be discussed with the full Board each year. The assessment will focus on the Board's contribution to the Company and specifically focus on areas in which the Board or management believes that the Board could improve.

Each standing Committee shall review and reassess the adequacy of its charter annually and recommend any proposed changes to the Board of Directors for approval. Further, each standing Committee shall annually review its own performance and report the results to the Board. The Corporate Governance Committee shall oversee and report annually to the Board its assessment of each Committee's performance evaluation process.

5. Charitable Contributions

The Board is committed to maintaining the independence of its Directors. In furtherance of this goal, the Board has adopted a policy for Directors requesting or recommending that the Company make charitable contributions to any organization. The Corporate Governance Committee will be responsible for the enforcement and periodic review of and updating the policy. In connection with its enforcement of the policy and interpretation and analysis of Directors' independence, the Committee will consider that substantial charitable contributions made by the Company to organizations with which a Director is affiliated, and charitable contributions made by the Company to certain organizations at the request or recommendation of a Director, could affect the Director's independence.

6. Prior Notice of Outside Directorships

Directors should carefully consider the number of other boards on which they can serve consistent with the time and energy necessary to satisfy the requirements of Board and Committee memberships. Directors should also carefully consider any actual or apparent conflicts of interest and impairments to independence that service on other boards may create. In furtherance of these considerations, outside directors must notify the Chairman of the Board or the Corporate Secretary in a timely fashion before accepting an invitation to serve on the board of another public company. This prior notice is to allow discussion with the Chairman of the Board to review whether such other service will interfere with the outside Director's service on the Company's Board, impact the Director's status as a Director, or create an actual or apparent conflict of interest for the Director.
